Resources returned via the 24-hour resource return drop box are the responsibility of the customer. Records are considered confidential information and may not be released without the proper judicial order. All requests for such information must be referred to the Library Director.

Customers may designate specific individuals to whom they grant access to their Library account. Any such designee will have full borrower's rights once permission has been granted. The customer, not the designee, is fully responsible for the card and the resources checked out on the card.

Resource Development

3.1 Scope of Resources

Resources selected for the Library are intended to meet the general, informational and recreational needs of Library customers. The scope is intended to offer a choice of format and varying levels of difficulty so that most needs can be met and service given to customers of all ages, within budget constraints and mission parameters. The emphasis is on acquiring resources of wide-ranging interest. The resources are not archival and are reviewed and revised on an on-going basis.

3.2 Maintenance of Resources

The Library maintains a continuous program of discarding worn, outdated, and superseded resources to maintain vitality and accuracy of the Library's collection. Resources that show a lack of demand may also be removed from the Library's collection.

3.3 Donations/Gifts

Donations of resources are gratefully accepted with the understanding that the resources may or may not be added. All donated resources are reviewed by Library staff for possible inclusion using the guidelines set forth in the Resource Development Manual. Donated resources become the property of the Library and will not be returned to the donor. Resources that are not added may be disposed of at the discretion of the Library.

The Library is not able to place a monetary value on donations, but upon request, the Library will provide a written receipt of donations.

Gifts of funds are always welcome and may be designated as memorials.

Gifts of non-Library resources such as works of art shall be at the discretion of the Library Director. Donated resources become the property of the Library and will not be returned to the donor. Normally, gifts with any limitations or restrictions on their use and/or disposal will not be accepted.

3.4 Reconsideration of Resources

The Library acquires resources representing various points of view. Resources are not excluded because of language, text, or illustrations if they meet criteria stated in the Resource Development Manual.

The use of Library resources by customers is a matter of individual taste. While the Library respects an individual's right to personally reject any resource they consider objectionable, the Library must try to provide the broadest spectrum of viewpoints.

A customer may request that a Library resource be reconsidered. The resource will remain available while the procedures for reconsideration of resources are followed.

Library Services

4.1 Reference

Reference services include answering questions, offering guidance in the selection and use of resources, assistance in the use of the Library catalog and with the completion of interlibrary loan requests.

Reference services are offered in a timely manner without bias regarding the nature of the request. All transactions are held in the strictest confidence. Library staff will answer questions using the most accurate and authoritative resources available. Requests will be managed with regard to urgency, complexity and availability of staff.

In person and telephone reference requests will be handled in the order in which they are received. If a request cannot be answered immediately, Library staff will obtain contact information from the customer and see that the customer receives a response within twenty-four hours.

4.2 Events

The Osceola Library System develops and presents events that reflect community interests and promote Library resources and services. Individual events are selected based on their quality of presentation and ability to encourage the use of Library resources and services.

All Library events are open to the public; however, some events may require advance registration and/or limited seating. No fees will be charged to customers attending Library events except with the approval of the Library Director. Library events will not in any way solicit or be used for personal or commercial gain.

4.3 Internet Use

The Osceola Library System offers both filtered public access to the Internet and other electronic resources. The Library has no control over the quality or accuracy of the information found using the Internet and does not assume responsibility for its content.

Parents or legal guardians of a minor child are responsible for the child's use of the Internet at the Library.

Accessing, downloading, uploading, or viewing pornographic, obscene, or sexually explicit resources is strictly prohibited. Anyone found doing so could lose his or her computer privileges and will be asked to stop. See Florida Statutes 847.011(1)(a) and 847.0133(1). Copies of these statutes can be viewed upon request.

Customers must act in accordance with the Copyright Law of the United States (Title 17 United States Code) governing the distribution and reproduction of copyrighted resources. Customers are solely responsible for violations of the copyright law. Customers must comply with all applicable federal, state, and local laws. The Library assumes no responsibility for damages arising from the use of computers or electronic services through its network. Customers may not attempt in any way to alter or damage computer hardware or software.

The Library reserves the right to regulate the use of resource stations, including the amount of time a resource station may be used. Failure to comply with either this policy or corresponding procedures may result in loss of computer use and/or Internet access. For further guidance, refer to the Computer Use procedures.

5.3 Literature Distribution

The Library maintains distribution points for the purpose of announcing and promoting Library programs, events and partnerships. Additionally, the Library will provide limited space for the distribution of information provided by city, county, state and federal government agencies. All other resources will be considered unauthorized and discarded.

5.4 Displays/Exhibits

Library exhibits and displays are intended to promote Library resources, partnerships and special events. If an exhibit may be enhanced by inclusion of non-Library resources, the Library may choose to include those resources.

6.2 Speaking Engagements

Speaking engagements made by Library personnel on behalf of the Library will be coordinated through the Business Office with the approval of Library administration.

6.3 Promotional Resources

Library promotional resources designed to be disseminated to the public will meet standards of quality established by the Library. The Business Office will be responsible for approval of all promotional resources.

6.4 Emergency Situations

In an emergency situation the Library Director, or a designee of the Library Director, will make the official statement to the public and media.

In the event that the Library has to be closed due to weather or an emergency situation the Library Director, or a designee of the Library Director, will contact designated media outlets.

6.5 Volunteers

The Osceola Library System Volunteer Program is designed to expand and enhance public service to the community. Volunteers generally provide support services to paid Library staff and/or work on special projects. Participants in the volunteer program generally come to the Library from a number of sources, including community social service agencies, volunteer centers, the County probation community service program, and from regular referrals. The number and type of volunteers accepted are based on the amount of work and supervisory time available. Volunteers must be 16 or older.

6.6 Library Partnerships

The Osceola Library System actively seeks community partners to further the Library's mission-driven and strategic action plan. These partnerships are relationships with other organizations that work in mutual cooperation and responsibility and are designed to benefit all participants. The Osceola Library System will enter into proposed partnerships deemed to be in the best interest of the Library and the community it serves. When determining a partnership, the administrative team will consider the following (listed in priority order):

1. The partnership will support the Library's policies, goals, mission, vision and values.
2. The partnership builds upon existing strengths of both the Library and the potential partner.
3. The Library has the resources available to create a successful partnership.
4. The partnership allows the Library to enhance a service, activity, or program that it could not do alone or under existing partnerships.
5. The partnership brings the Library together with partners who have a common interest in a successful alliance and will participate on an equitable basis.
6. Partnerships will create goodwill and enhance the community profile of the Osceola Library System.
